In a pleasant chat one evening while Miss LeRoy, of the Lewis-Oliver Players, was having a week of nights off on account of the Great Richards' engagement at the Hippodrome, this accomplished actress told us much of her stage career. We were not surprised to learn that she has a wide experience, her versatility indicated as much. She has appeared in some of the best houses on one-night stands and stock companies from one end of the continent to the other, and played all manner of parts, even starring for a time in Kansas City in musical comedy. But the thing I meant to write about was her expressed belief in the return of the drama to popularity. In a general discussion of the "decadence of the drama," or perhaps, its repression by the movies would be better, we found that we both held similar opinions as to its revival. We also agreed that the drama would be accomplished through stock productions and took as a convenient example for a basis the local conditions. It has been noticeable that the very excellent road shows with such high-class productions as "Kick-in," "The Eternal Magdalene" and others of a dramatic or melodramatic nature, have not drawn well at the Grand, while packed houses greeted most every other variety of theatricals put on at the same house. In contrast the enormous success of the Lewis-Oliver Players, who are now on their eighth week, gave us good grounds for our conclusions. John Ranken Towse, who has been a dramatic critic for the New York Evening Post for forty-three years, has published a book on the subject, an excerpt from which is printed in the current issue of "The Dramatic Mirror." In substance, he declares that the only chance for a real and permanent theatrical revival lies in the restoration of the stock system. "Sooner or later, I believe," he says, "this will come about. . . . From all sides come reports of the organization of new stock companies with definite programs and good financial backing. If these experiments succeed there will be no lack of imitators. Then may we be upon the brink of a new era."

The Grand's new organ offered a revelation to local theatre goers on Saturday. It was the first day of its operation and in conjunction with an unusually strong screen production attracted large crowds at each of the afternoon and evening performances. Manager Miller said it was a highly satisfactory beginning and believed that patrons were awakened to a full sense of appreciation of the wonderful merits and entertaining feature of the new $10,000 investment. Professor Jones proved himself the master of the big sound producer and at the end of several selections was loudly applauded.

The Eleventh Episode of "Peg O' the Ring" at the Princess today is full of thrills and there is no slowing up of the interest created by the previous chapters. The title of today's picture is "The Stamped."

The Lewis-Oliver Players are putting on a very strong bill, which is liberal in its comedy elements, for the first half of the week. A number of local children are taking part in this piece, and capacity business is anticipated by the management. Another bucket of money will be given away tomorrow night—a regular Tuesday feature which has now become popularly known as "pay night."

"Honor Thy Name" is a big Ince production at the Dixie today, with such noted Triangle stars as Frank Keenan, Charley Ray and Louis Glavin in the cast.

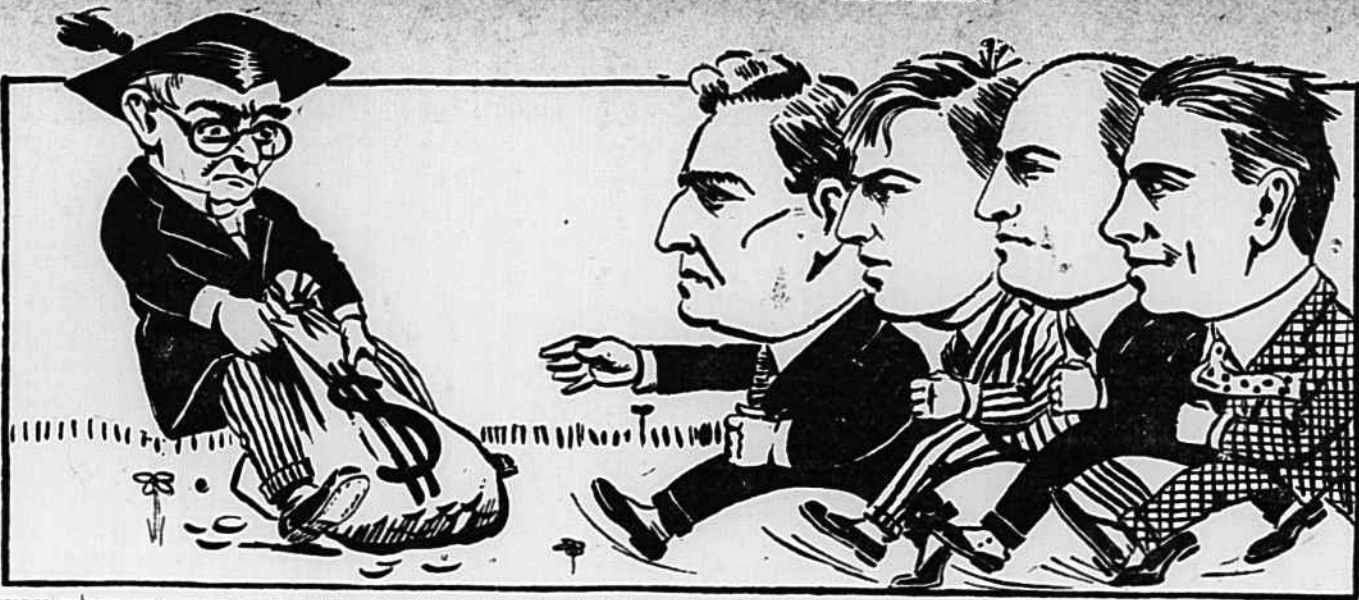

Advance notices tell us that there is one continuous joy ride from curtain to curtain for those who will see George M. Cohan's newest comedy, "Hit-the-Trail Holiday" at the Grand on Wednesday. The new piece is a typical American comedy in Cohan's best vein. It introduces a number of quaint country-folk characters into whose midst comes "Billy" Holliday, the best bartender in all Yorktown, who, in his new environment takes sides with the prohibition party and organizes a temperance campaign that puts the boozers to rest.

The cast includes Frank Otto, Arthur V. Gibson, Harry Hubbard, Howard Hull Gibson, Franklin Hall, Dan Anderson, Chauncey Causeland, Louis Egan, Sam Burton, Ben Sweeney, John Daley, E. N. Lewis, Bert Sammis, Lola Merrill, Mildred Beverly and Jo Robinson Haywood. This same company is hop-skippping to the western coast and played last Friday and Saturday night in Wheeling from whence come reports of the most glowing sort.

BOWLING AT "Y" IMPROVING.
Better scores than ever are expected in the commercial bowling league at the Y. M. C. A. this week. Last week a great improvement was noticed as the men swung into condition. Long, of the Traction Company, is high man with 136, Orthof second with 135 and Rollins third with 131. Long has the high three game total with 331 with Gardner, second with 329. HARRIS have high team score for one game with 520 while the Traction Company has high three game total with 1,503.

SPORT NOTES.
Someone said in New York the other day that the National league is still classed as a major.
The smiles of the undertakers are growing broader daily. Football season is here and the small game hunting season will open shortly.

WILL COLLEGE BAR COSTLY COACHES?

HIGH PRICE COACHES WHO MAY LOSE OUT IF YALE RULE IS ADOPTED, A. A. STAGG CHICAGO; TAD JONES, YALE; PERCY HAUGHTON, HARVARD; FIELDING YOST, MICHIGAN.

BY PAUL PURMAN
Is the end in sight for immense salaries for college coaches and physical directors?
Year after year, since athletics have become a paramount issue in college activities, more and more money has been spent by schools to get high class men to direct their football, baseball, track and basketball teams and their crews.
Even the smaller colleges are spending comparatively large sums of money annually for their athletic mentors.

The first movement toward cheaper coaching has come from Yale where a special committee on athletics has heavily scored the high cost of athletics and the maintenance of large and expensive coaching staffs.
The constantly increasing competition in colleges is blamed for the advanced cost which has reached the thousands of dollars in many instances.
In the east where staffs of half a dozen or more assistants are employed in addition to the main coach the expense is terrific.
The high price of coaches is felt in the smallest colleges.

Schools with only 200 or 300 students must produce good athletic teams to hold their attendances. Coaches are hired and usually are paid more than the heads of educational departments.
The really great coaches of the country, men like Tad Jones of Yale, Alonzo Stagg of Chicago, Fielding Yost of Michigan, and Percy Haughton of Harvard, receive salaries clear out of proportion to that paid professors.
In making their report the Yale committee suggests that the athletic expense might be cut by the use of graduate or undergraduate coaches at small expense.

"The intensity of athletic rivalry," the committee reported, "if unchecked, may so increase as to make intercollegiate athletics an unprofitable scramble for the raising of huge sums of money for the payment of disproportionate salaries demanded by expert coaches."
Speaking of the present system, the better to eliminate intercollegiate athletics altogether until the dawn of an era of reasonableness in such things."

MADAME MIRIAM ARDINI.

Madame Ardini, the American opera singer, has surprised friends by her fine cooking. It is said she does her own shopping, scrubs the floors, does her own laundry and washes dishes.

MONONGAH

Selling Out.
J. R. Lake and Robert Colvin, both well known business men of this town who have been in the grocery business on Main street for the past few years are now selling out their stock and will quit business as soon as possible. Mr. Lake has accepted a position as traveling salesman for the Wolfshelm Bros. clothing company of Baltimore.

District Meeting.
Plans are being carried out by the local order of Red Men and Pocahontas for the district meeting that will be held here Saturday of this week. Several lodges from over the state will be invited. The committee in charge of the affair is as follows: Mesdames C. Salvati, chairman; Ben Fox, Bruce Rodgers, John Davis, Charles Leving, Landis Leeson, Messrs. J. Lee Jones, R. Robey and Clyde Leonard.

PERSONAL.
Mrs. A. L. Baughman, of Charleston, W. Va., has been visiting Mrs. Lloyd M. Kuhn of this town for several days.
The Misses Pearl Hodges, Viola A. Wolf, Bessie Reed and Marjorie Ross, members of the Fairmont high school faculty were calling in Monongah during the week-end.
Marvin Hartley, of near Eldora, was calling with friends in Monongah yesterday.

Miss Niel Barker spent Sunday with friends in Edgemont.
Miss Carrie Smith spent the week-end with her parents who reside near Boothsville.

Byron Warder and Miss Edna Warder, of Fairmont, were social visitors here yesterday evening.
Paul Thompson, of Watson, motored to Monongah Sunday afternoon.

Miss Bertha Yoke and sister, of Buckhannon, were visiting their parents, Rev. and Mrs. Yoke, of Rivesville.

Matty is to use more discipline with his players, according to Fred Toney. Personally, we believe, a little dynamite judiciously placed would be more effective.

PARADISE.
BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL.
They tell us that in Paradise
A fellow only sings;
Or sits about with dreamy eyes
And preens his pretty wings.

I think the folks who spread this dope
Have got it all dead wrong;
If ever I go there I hope
I won't just sing a song.

I want to have a real job
When with this world I'm through;
I wouldn't be a holy snob,
With not a thing to do.

'Twould be all right to rest awhile,
A week, or two, or three;
But loafing would go out of style
Quite soon I think, with me.

If heaven were a golden court,
A great reception hall,
It would be kind of sorry sort
To sit and lamp the wall.

I'm for a busy Paradise,
Where each must do his share,
So when a common fellow dies
He won't be lonesome there!

His lordship had engaged a new butler named Pat. A week later he gave a ball and Pat had to announce the guests.

"Hon. L. Brown, Master Brown and Miss Brown," called Pat.
This got his lordship's nerve. "Pat," he said, "pray be more brief when you have to announce people."

The next arrivals were Mr. Brown, Mrs. Brown and Master Brown. Pat waved his hand to indicate the direction which they were to take, at the same time calling out "Fifteen bob."

WHY HE SUBSCRIBED.
A collector of subscriptions for the brass-band fund once came across a farmer who was noted for his meanness. To his surprise the farmer at once consented to subscribe as large a sum as any he had yet received.

"Mr. Hardist," he said, addressing the farmer, "you are surely very fond of music to give so much."

"Oh, yes," said the farmer; "they're grand for scaring the crows from ma'tates when they're practisin' and I'm grateful."

Murphy was in the hospital and had undergone an operation. As he was recovering he remarked to the patient on the right: "I am thankful that's over."

"Oh," exclaimed the patient, "at my operation the doctor left the scissors inside and I had to undergo the same again."

The patient on the left remarked that at his operation he sponge had been left and it all had to be gone over again.

Just as they had finished talking the doctor appeared at the door and asked: "Has any one seen my hat?" It was then that Murphy faints.

NEW YORK LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Governor Hughes struck out straight from the shoulder when a heckler in his audience at Louisville demanded to know what he would have done when the Lusitania was sunk. After some difficulty with the audience which wanted to throw the heckler out, Mr. Hughes succeeded in quieting it and replied: "Sir, I would have had the State department, at the very beginning of the administration, so equipped as to command the respect of the world. Next, I would have so conducted our affairs in Mexico as to have shown that our words meant peace and good will and protection of the lives and property of American citizens. And when I said 'strict accountability' every nation would have known that I meant it; and finally, when notice was published regarding the action threatened I would have made in terms unmistakable and unequivocal that we would not tolerate a continuance of diplomatic relations if the threat were carried out." It is not surprising to learn that the candidate's audience went wild with enthusiasm, that, as one correspondent describes, "at Mr. Hughes last word 'there' came something more than a roar—it had a wilder, more hysterical quality—it was like a hysterical yell, and it lasted for several minutes, while thousands of men hammered each other on the back and threw their hats in the air and acted like men gone stark-bang crazy." And the demonstration was tremendous not because of the words, but because his hearers believed that he meant what he said and knew that had he been President, the Lusitania would never have been sunk. As President Wilson was saying at Indianapolis, almost at the same moment, "speeches are interesting in proportion as the people who hear believe what the speaker says."

"The New Freedom":
Mr. Hughes paid his respects to the "new freedom" at Louisville. He declared that "the country is sick of Mr. Wilson's 'new freedom' because while shouting for freedom he has submitted to government by hold-up. What has this 'new freedom' meant?" he asked. "It seems to have a surprising and deplorable range. It has meant freedom to sacrifice the principles of the merit system, which our opponents pledged themselves to enforce. It has meant freedom to embark the government in novel enterprises in competition with private business, as in the case of the government shipping bill. It has meant freedom to depart from the principles of international law to conduct a personal diplomacy to satisfy personal vindictiveness. It has meant freedom to wage war, not to protect American rights, but to dislodge a disliked ruler and to leave our citizens and their property to anarchy and revolution. It has meant freedom to depart from our time-honored policy of protecting American citizens who take American enterprise abroad, and substituting a new policy which treats them as adventurers whose flag is no longer a symbol of protection of their just rights. It has meant freedom to subvert the principles of government by yielding its authority to the demands of force, the use of the forms of free institutions to tyrannize over the public, to impose demands without inquiry as to their justice. In a word, the 'new freedom' in action has meant 'the new salubrity,' a terrorized government, government by hold-up."

Jersey Strong For Hughes:
There never has been any doubt in the minds of the Republican campaign managers regarding New Jersey's giving its electoral vote to Governor Hughes, but the extent of Mr. Hughes' majority in that state is certain to prove a surprise. An extensive postal-card canvass of the state conducted by the Hughes Alliance shows that over 17 per cent. of those who voted for Mr. Wilson four years ago are determined to vote for Mr. Hughes this year, all of which leads the President of the New Jersey Alliance to remark that "while in some parts of the country only the Wilson myth is known, New Jersey knows its Wilson."

Indiana in Line:
William P. Walter, an attorney in Fort Wayne, Indiana, has forwarded to the Hughes Alliance the names of 107

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months."

I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.
